Exploring the landscape of life with the BigWish Team. Why have we been adopted by a peacock? This month, we were delighted to meet a new friend at the BigWish Baitcomber. After our first meeting with the Colchester Sea Anglers, Mollie and I decided that we wanted to go out with the same group again, to see if the same peacock came back. And sure enough, on our second trip out to Baitcomber, the peacock appeared again. We both stood to the side, trying not to scare it off, and we waited for it to start feeding. Soon, a white bird appeared and hopped on to the sandy bank, where it was joined by another peacock. It paused for a few seconds, then continued on its way. A wild animal often on the look-out for food At first, I wasn't sure what to make of this. I'd never seen a peacock in our garden before, and usually a peacock will only be seen on holiday grounds or in parks. It felt like Mollie and I had something special to share, and were receiving a gift from the peacock. Or perhaps, the peacock was giving us an opportunity to share something special with it – so much so that it would come back. We waited for a short time 1cb139a0ed
