Laravel: How to enable all possible observers? It's a Laravel 5.4 site and I was about to enable all possible observers in the event that one of my clients was interested in seeing what I am up to.

So, I've found the event that Laravel provides for this.

\Event::listen('view.my_profile', function() {
    // my_profile is the class name }); \Event::listen('view.my_chatroom', function() { //
    my_chatroom is the class

---

```
name }); \Event::listen('view.upload', function() { // my_upload is the class
name }); \Event::listen('view.download', function() { // my_download is the class name });

And as you can see it's simply a nested listen function so that I get the observers of each event I create. So, my question is, is there a way I can do this without writing a function for each class? A: The event is called via a listener instance, this would allow you to run through all its listeners until you find your class and then call the hook $class = new ReflectionClass('WhateverClass'); $listeners = $class->getListeners('view'); foreach($listeners as $

---

---
