You can also create and edit shapes. Shapes can be used to draw or paint lines, play with perspective, add 3D to an image, or create abstract shapes in a pattern. You can also add and edit text. You can use typography to change the appearance of text, apply special effects, and add captions and headlines. Read next This website lets you create 3D models from any photo. This website lets you create 3D models from any photo. Effects apply to layers, including shading, borders, and reflections. You can also add clarity, brightness, saturation, and contrast. Using text tools, you can manually add text and also add text to images. You can select from many fonts or choose your own and use different formats (including Photoshop CS 6's font sublayers). The Liquify tool lets you stretch, squish, and warp objects. The Gradient tool gives you the opportunity to automatically fill areas with different colors or patterns. The Puppet Warp tool lets you fix warped layers, apply custom-made transformations, add Skew to layers, or create and edit keyframes. You can also create patterns and elements from scratch, using the Magic Wand tool, to create new items. You can edit the appearance of elements, including colors and highlighting, by adjusting the Hue/Saturation, the Color Range, the Lighting or Opacity. You can also use the Curves tool to adjust a range of colors to a specified color. You can add transparency and blur effects, as well as decrease or increase depth of field. You can also create shadows by using the Shadow tool, and you can create reflections, using the Reflections tool. You can also animate objects using the Warp, Fade, and Grow tools. Q: Exactness of restrictions of sheaves Let X and Y be topological spaces and let $f:X\rightarrow Y$ be a surjective map. Suppose we are given two sheaves $\mathcal{F}$ and $\mathcal{G}$ on X and let $\mathcal{F}_f$ and $\mathcal{G}_f$ be the sheaves on Y whose value on an open set V of Y is $$(\mathcal{F}_f)_V=\mathcal{F}_V\circ f$$ and $$(\mathcal{G}_f)_V=\mathcal{G}_V\circ f$$ respectively. I would like to show that $\mathcal{F}_f$ and $\mathcal{G}_f$ are isomorphic sheaves and I was wondering if there is a nice proof for this. Thanks in advance! A: The sheaves $f_*(\mathcal{F})$ and $\mathcal{G}$ are isomorphic, by definition. The restriction maps are all monic, as the composition of two monics is monic. Q: How to make out-of-process Win32 application in.NET? I have the need to write a Win32 C++ program that needs to run outside of the.NET framework. Since the program creates a dedicated window and stores its handle and position information, this is trivially easy for a C++ program. All calls to the.NET program will be to the native API, but since it is a.NET program, the implementation will use COM if the developer is using.NET 3.5 or later. So, how can this be done? A: You shouldn't do this. A.NET application is an application written in.NET (i.e. it is a COM program). If it had to be an native application it would simply be a normal application. There is no technical way that you can prevent a.NET application from being a COM application, and in any case a COM application is simply a.NET application. That is what "COM" stands for. The native APIs are in essence just the same as they would be for a standard Win32 application.
