"I said to him that in England you can't just do anything you want," said Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger. "You need to be good in the basics to be really successful in England." A perfect example of this, which Wenger will be pleased his side was able to perfect, was the performance of Theo Walcott at White Hart Lane. "Our whole performance was good: we defended very well, we created chances," Wenger said after Arsenal's 2-0 win. "We scored the second goal from a set piece. "It was a good win. We started a little bit shaky after that Christmas period. We needed to get back to work and we did that. "The majority of the players are fit. You can
