A: The lyrics which makes sense in the movie is stated in the lyrics but the music is wrong. On listening to the music on the net, they cannot be concluded that this particular song is Suresh Wadkar. The movie's music is superb, that's why it has to be heard. Click this link for a better audio quality of the song. A: It's seems to me that it's you who didn't understand how to listen to the song - first of all, you've missed the musical meter - notes on the beat are written with the semitone signs (they indicate one beat - in your case you missed it, since you were choosing the notes the rhythm of the song alternates between note-long sequences like sSs or sSsSs or ssSsSsSs, depending on whether you count the first note before the first beat, or the first beat, the second beat, etc.). Secondly, it's actually Suresh Wadkar's song, which had been one of the best-known songs of Bollywood before the movie. For the curious people, here's the link to the original song and the movie's soundtrack:
