ULA Jet Engine: This item is a replacement jet engine. A jet engine has a set of spirals which is called nozzle and behind the nozzle are many parts. The difference between a conventional and jet engine is the jet engine has an engine fan. A conventional engine does not have this. The fuel intake is at the back of the engine, the engine fuel. Its a piston engine. Your jet engines are piston engines. With the piston engine, you put the fuel and air together and you get the explosion. But, in the jet engine, the fuel and air comes together and causes an explosion. This is also the reason that your jet engine is an air-breathing engine. Your piston engine needs a compressor to make air flow. In your air breathing engine, you do not need a compressor.
